The Columbia Bank Foundation presents a $19,600 grant to the Phoenix Center, a Nutley school that provides educational and therapeutic services to children and young adults with disabilities. The money converts unused outdoor space into a learning garden.
